Why aren't the pheromones mentioned in the ingredients list?

Pheromones are not specified because they are part of the aromatic composition of the product and as such, they are included in the term "aroma" (it is the only function that is recognized at the level of cosmetic ingredient), specifying them or not is a matter of marketing.

Maï pheromones are mixtures in different proportions (depending on the product) between Androstenone, Androstenol and Estratetraenol.

Maï products are regular and legal under every aspect, they are registered with the CPNP which stands for Cosmetic Products Notification Portal. This is the online notification system made mandatory by the EU Cosmetics Regulation No 1223/2009, as lubricants and massage oils with Pheromones. But not only that, Maï is proud of the fact that in addition to having all the certifications in order in Europe, they also have EAC certificates in Russia after long and rigorous laboratory analyzes.
